Pastor Reflections:

Friends,

After two years here at Cayce UMC, I really do have the privilege to call “you my friends”. It is always a special relationship that a minister has with his/her members but to be able to call them friends is wonderful. Neither you or I expected my being here as it was last minute. But I am delighted that yours and mine’s flexibility and patience along with the grace of God allowed this to partnership to work out. Thanks be to God whose grace and power pervades and seeps into every area of our lives. God’s presence and grace goes before us and follows us. There is no escaping it.

Let me thank you, my friends, for welcoming me and my family with such open arms and hearts. I quickly came to learn of your own trauma and loss and struggle that you have been carrying and enduring. So, I was hoping that I could be a part of some healing and growth along with a dose of hope for the future. One of my favorite hymns, “Hymn of Promise”, talks about how God brings about new beginnings from the endings and disappointments and wreckage of our lives. And ours is to be open to that work of the Spirit and to trust God even though we can’t see the evolving work very well. It’s “often something God alone can see.” May that work continue with Morgan as you graciously welcome him and Anna.

Let me thank you for your support of me (And you have had to put up with my very imperfect voice.)...for your generous giving of your time and talent and energy and financial gifts for Christ’s work through Cayce UMC. I have been astonished by your sacrificial generosity and your big hearts and the many servant attitudes I have seen. In an anxious time and fearful society that is continually calling us to first look after our own needs, wants and security, it takes a deep level of self-abandonment and love for others to actually be a church...a serving, supporting, hospitable community of people who are bucking the cultural trends and trying to live in the way of Jesus. We are always on the journey toward becoming the people and the church that God is calling us to be. There is still work to do but we have already had glimpses of and experienced the love of that church. It’s been going on for a long time. Embrace the good work that has been done and that we are still doing.

Again, I say, “thank you”. May God bless us all (and God does!) “God of every pilgrim heart, bless our journeys on these roads we never planned to take but through your surprising wisdom discovered we were on.” (Davna Markova)

Your minister, pastor and friend,

Tom
